To show character and feelings

Unsteadily, I opened the door to a just about standing floorboards, bits of water splashed through the rotten floorboards now and then. I slowly walked and looked around it looked like a boat that had sunk for a century and then came back to the surface. It only had one piece of furniture and that was the most unintact, the most unmaintained table in the world even: a table with bluetack glue and pen stuck on it and pencil sharpener pieces! On it was a map with a sword on it. At least there was no dust on it. Suddenly there was a wave as big as Mount Everest it made me lurch, I didn't get hurt or anything but I saw I ~~could~~ <sup>couldn't</sup> roll I picked it up it had a sort of "Pirate? The king of pirates maybe? it didn't have a number on it." GOBBLEDEDUCK! I thought. All of a sudden the door swung open it was like <sup>she</sup> heard me. It she was a mountain with a belt and a sword in her hair There was a ripped ribbon in the never ending hair "Have you been sneaking my gold into your pocket?" she said. I wanted to say "I don't have pockets but there was a lump in my thought."

I stayed quiet hoping + he would let me go but he didn't she picked up her I'm guessing £10000 sword it shone it the sun it it went zooming at me and then...

Wow Rebecca!

Super character description

Great vocabulary choices. (3M)
