

Year 6 Newsletter

Week 10 beginning 28th November

The festive feeling has certainly arrived in class this week. Decorations are up and the preparations for the Christmas Fair have been building up around the us. Rehearsals for the carol concert have interrupted our afternoon lessons but we have maintained Maths and English each day.

The panto was fantastic! The children really enjoyed it and most of ours in Year 6 were getting really invloved with all the singing and dancing. It was a fun way to begin a hectic day. When we arrived back from the panto, the Christmas Fair was next. The event was my first experience and the way it was described to me seemed absolutely chaotic. However, I have to say it was a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon and was great to see so many children having fun and parents experiencing this with them. Year 6 children were a credit to you all! They set up all their stalls in the class and were fantastic with all the children who came. The face painting stall had to be my favourite (for those of you that saw me- thanks Herbie for the wonderful reindeer you did, what made it even more entertaining was that I went straight to the Christmas Fair at my own children's school after ours which brought a few laughs when I entered the hall!)

English- This week, we have created a text map to aid our oral re-telling of the opeing to our story. We also looked at a chunked plot and bagan to gather ideas for our own stories.

Maths- This week we have been looking at angles. We have recapped on how to draw and measure angles accurately and then calculated missing angles of intersecting lines.

Homework: This has been set on My Maths and is about angles. Spellings will come home Monday due to Friday being so disjointed from actual lessons. We gave the children a week off last week because we knew it was a very busy week with so much going on around school.

Brass: Please can you make sure brass instruments are in school Tuesday. I will ask the children to keep them in for Wednesday as well so we can do another rehersal in school together.

TTRS- Well done to the class on winning the battle against Year 5. It was very close but we came out on top. Well done and thank you to all of those children who took part in gaining points for the class.

Christmas Baubles: Thank you to all who have sent money in already. Please could you send money and slips in ASAP so that we can get them ordered and completed before the mad rush of Christmas begins.

It is an opportunity to create a momento of their time in Year 6.

Another big thank you for all your sweet donations for the Christmas Fair.

Many thanks

Mr Stell and Mrs Pallister
